Nota that Alexr Munro got two stone of the said wool, yt I gote an Extravagant Accompt from Robt Ross signed by John Ross Hugh's son, the most of which is false in fact, & nothing to be allowed thereof, but what is written by Hugh Ross his own hand in his Compt Book, on sufficient voucher under my hand..."¹⁷.

Hugh Ross was married to Margaret Manson, daughter of Charles Manson who served as town clerk for a long period. Some online family trees give this Hugh Ross as the son of David Ross 2^{nd} of Balblair but there is no evidence to support this. The Margaret Manson shown as his wife is a different Margaret Manson. These connections seem to be based on creative interpretation of the incomplete records that are available.

He witnessed several baptisms in the 1720s, including that of David (1723), son of Alexander Manson, late treasurer, and Margaret Manson, daughter of the deceased David Manson. The other witnesses were Malcolm Ross and Charles Manson. Also the baptism of John (1725), son of John Manson in Little Tain and Helen Manson daughter of Charles Manson (i.e. Hugh's sister-in-law).

Alexander Ross of Pitcalnie's inventory of Wester Arboll in 1735 included "ane dozen silver spoons and a dailing spoon marked with MR & AW"¹⁸. MR & AW were his father Malcolm Ross who had recently died and his second wife Agnes Wallace, who were married in the 1720s. An inventory of 1742 mentions 12 silver spoons and a dealing spoon, probably the same as above, plus 6 tea silver spoons (sic), 1 silver drinking jugg, 1 large silver dish and 1 silver tea tongs¹⁹. An inventory of 1724 also included 12 silver spoons, possibly the same ones (AW's first husband George Munro of Culrain died in 1724), with a silver tea spoon, a large silver dish and 3 silver tumblers²⁰.

Further information on Charles Manson from burgh sasines²¹. He was the eldest son of Alexander Manson merchant and was married to Elizabeth McCulloch (sasine of 1778 – EM his relict). As well as Margaret and Helen he also had a daughter Katherine (sasine of 1780 – relict of Alexander Ross tenant in Ardgay). Macgill: Alexander Manson also had a son David to whom he transferred the "tenement commonly called the Great Hall with stable, granary, garden adjoining" (on roughly the site of the Royal Hotel)²².

6. Donald Ross III, pewterer (d.1743²³)

1715: Captain of the guard²⁴.

1721: Baptism of son Andrew²⁵. He became a merchant in Madras²⁶.

1722: Baptism of daughter Janet²⁷. She died unmarried c. 1788²⁸.

1724: Baptism of son William. Witnesses were Roderick Dingwall of Cambuscurrie, David Hay and John Reid²⁹.

1726: Baptism of son Alexander³⁰.

1731: Numerous references in burgh treasurer's accounts from this ${\sf date}^{\sf 31}.$

1751: Son Andrew served heir to his father of the burgage tenements in Tain³².

Like John and George Ross later, Donald Ross was well connected. His wife was Margaret Ross, daughter of Andrew Ross of Shandwick, and before their marriage her brother William already addressed Donald as "aff. Cousigne" Margaret died in 1753; she and Donald were buried at Fearn Abbey³⁴.

7. Charles McCulloch, goldsmith, gunsmith (early 18th c.)

1716: List of arms compiled under the Disarming Act (1716) "Charles Macculloch, Gunn smith in Inverness. Six Gunns valued at £4, Six Side Pistols at £4/3/4, Seven Swords at £0/17/6, One Gunn & one Pistoll at £0/4/0, Two Gunns without locks, two ratches or durks £0/12/4 = £9/17/2". This was one of the higher amounts listed within the burgh of Inverness³⁵.

1718-1750: Frequent mentions in the Inverness Hammermen Minute Book. He served numerous terms as clerk, keymaster, boxmaster and councillor to the incorporation³⁶.

1722: Took apprentice Alexander Ross³⁷.

1723: Debt owing to Charles McCulloch gunsmith³⁸.

1725: Pistols made by him about this date recorded in the USA³⁹.

1727: Marriage to Elspet McBean⁴⁰.

1729: Took apprentice William McIntosh⁴¹.

1731: Discharge. Describes McCulloch as goldsmith in Inverness, the son of James McCulloch, merchant in Tain, and Agnes Corbet, eldest daughter of James Corbet of Balnagall. A second discharge of the same date is to David Ross of Inverchassley in return for which he will pay a yearly aliment of 100 merks to Agnes Corbet. Charles and his sister Abigail described as the only surviving children of James McCulloch. Both discharges witnessed by Donald Ross III⁴².

1737: "Charles McCulloch gunsmith in Inverness and Katherine Anderson his spouse had a Child baptized by Mr James Kay called Anna John McIntosh of Cullalachie John McBean Sheriff Clerk Witnesses" John McBean was the father of McCulloch's first wife.

1743: Summons against "Charles McCullach, Gunsmith, for a pair of brass pistols I gave him to dress, which he disposed of; cost me £4" 44 .

8. Alexander Mackenzie I and II, knockmasters (early 18th c.)

1732: Salary as clockmaster in burgh accounts⁴⁵. Payments appeared every two or three years until 1748 then again in 1767.

1735: "Alexr Mackenzie, knockmaster, to find caution for his care and fidelity in keeping the key of the steeple"⁴⁶.

1753: Payment for repairing the town clock⁴⁷.

1756: Ditto. "He and his son Alexr to uphold and keep the said clock regular for 7 years."

9. David Manson gunsmith (early 18th c.)

1737/8: Payment for mending and dressing the town's arms⁴⁸⁴⁹.

1741: Payment in burgh accounts⁵⁰.

1801: Reference to heirs of Daniel Manson gunsmith⁵¹.

10. Francis Ross, silversmith (b.c.1705)

1719: Son of Robert Ross of Tain bailie, apprentice to master silversmith Robert Innes of Inverness⁵².

Robert Ross was a son of Alexander Ross of Easterfearn and Janet, daughter of Gilbert Robertson of Kindeace. He married Janet, daughter of Alexander Ross of Little Tarrel. They had several children including an unnamed son who became a silversmith in Jamaica⁵³.

The fact that Francis Ross went to Inverness to serve his apprenticeship begs the question why he did not serve it with Hugh Ross in Tain. One answer may be that Hugh Ross already had at least one of his own sons working with him and did not need or want an apprentice. And secondly it is possible that Hugh and Robert Ross did not see entirely eye to eye. An incident recorded in the presbytery records for 1722 describes how a group of gentlemen from Sutherland profaned the Sabbath with their outrageous behaviour. They forced the ferryman at Meikle Ferry to take them across the firth and rode to Tain where they spent most of the day eating and drinking ("but especially drinking") at Bailie Robert Ross's house. One of the men, George Gray of Skibo, tried to persuade Hugh Ross to dress his pistols but Hugh would have none of it on the Sabbath. The matter was a major scandal and was referred to the Commission of the General Assembly⁵⁴.

11. Hugh Ross II, silversmith (c.1715-1776)

1746: In letter to Earl of Sutherland "Your lp may remember that at Tarbat House I showed you a spoon and some other things received from Hugh Ross the silversmith here, particularly a locket set in gold bearing a cipher on the gold part"⁵⁵.

1749: In letter from William Master of Ross "I send the pattern of one of six silver cups I had made at Aberdeen as a direction to the man at Tayne..."⁵⁶.

1750; Bill to Ross of Pitcalnie for work carried out between May 1740 and October 1748, including mending and dressing swords and making nine table spoons⁵⁷.

1751: "House in Little Taine of Hugh Ross silversmith"⁵⁸.

1754: Letter to Ross of Pitcalnie in which he discusses taking a number of watches to Edinburgh for repair and getting stones for seals and signet rings while he is there. He plans to be away for about a month and mentions a court case waiting to be heard⁵⁹.

1754: Letter to Lady Ross of Pitcalnie re spoons he has made for her "mark'd as you direct" and asking for the measurement of her finger for a ring⁶⁰.

1756: Tain stent roll, silversmith⁶¹.

1758: Listed in first window tax record for Tain and appears thereafter as smith, silversmith or goldsmith⁶². House with 7 windows.

1766: Tain suit roll, silversmith⁶³.

1771: "... principal dwelling house at that time ruinous... in Little Tain... the said house and yard was at that time (1768) possessed by Hugh Ross silversmith in $Tain''^{64}$.

1773: Letter from Naomi Ross of Pitcalnie, presumably to her son Munro, mentioning uncertainty over whether a snuff horn bought from Hugh Ross in 1769 had been paid for: "I think you said the horn was 15sh perhaps you have kept the money and if you did it is no great matter. I only want to know as the man is pressing for his money that I may pay it or convince him that he is paid according to your information for why should we pay twice or keep the man out of his money"65.

1773-1776: Hugh Ross senior and junior gold/silversmiths listed in window tax records⁶⁶.

Little Tain was to the north-west of the town and was marked as a separate settlement on General Roy's map of c.1750. It stood beyond the Auldmatach burn which formed a natural western limit to the core of the burgh. It has been suggested that it was a crafting community⁶⁷. Note that Hugh Ross I also had a property in the north-west part of Tain.

11a. Hugh Simpson, gunsmith (mid 18th c.)

1767: Mentioned in burgh sasine⁶⁸.

11b. James Brown, clockmaker (mid 18th c.)

1745: Payment for repairing the town clock⁶⁹.

12. Donald Ross IV, gunsmith (mid 18th c.)

1756: Two bills to the lady of Pitcalnie for various bits of domestic metalwork, including making snuffers and a candlestick⁷⁰.

1770-1784: In window tax records. House with 7 windows⁷¹.

1787: Held house from Sir John Ross of Balnagown⁷².

13. John Ross I, pewterer (mid 18th c.)

1766: Suit roll⁷³.

14. John Ross II, watch and clockmaker (c.1740-1794)

1763: Entered agreement with Glasgow clockmaker Gavin Skeoch to make a musical eight day clock for Hugh McLeod of Geanies⁷⁴.

1766: Payment of £1 3s 6d in burgh accounts⁷⁵.

1768: John Ross clockmaker paid salary of £2 15s (for maintaining town clock)⁷⁶.

1768: Became a member of the Guildry. Occasional mentions in minutes thereafter⁷⁷.

1768: Joined St Duthus masonic lodge⁷⁸.

1770: Payment of £2 10s in burgh accounts for keeping the town clock in order⁷⁹.

1772: "Town clock is very irregularly kept and the Bells equally irregularly rung in the morning... by John Ross clockmaster... He intrusts the keys of the Council house and Turnpike leading up by the prisons to the Bartizan of the Steeple and ringing of said bells to a Wittless Boy... dismiss John Ross"⁸⁰.

1774: First appearance in window tax records. House with 7 windows⁸¹.

1776-1793: Baptisms of 9 children⁸².

1780: Listed in CWS83.

1782: Made clock for Cromarty Courthouse (still in situ and working).

1787: Taxed for house with 10 windows⁸⁴.

1787: Held house from Sir John Ross of Balnagown⁸⁵.

1787: Bought items at the roup of Hugh Ross III⁸⁶.

1789: Taxed for house with 8 windows⁸⁷.

1793: Last entry in window tax records⁸⁸.

1794: Died. Attended Guildry on Dec 24th 1793 but Margaret described as widow in September 1794⁸⁹.

1796-1814: Annuity paid to widow Margaret by Guildry because of her indigent circumstances and numerous family⁹⁰.

1799: Mrs John Ross watchmaker taxed on house with 4 windows⁹¹.

1814: Attendance at Tain Royal Academy by daughter Hannah⁹².

Other: Long-case clock in private ownership in East Lothian. Long-case clock illustrated in British Clocks and Clockmakers, K Ullyett, London 1957. Turret clock in Auckland Museum, New Zealand (1990.112), further details pending. Mantel clock left to NTS by Hamilton Cormack, solicitor in Tain, on long term loan to Tain & District Museum.

It is not possible at the moment to untangle John Ross's family, but his wife, Margaret Gray, was extremely well connected. She was the daughter of David Gray of Newton, Creich, Sutherland, an offshoot of the Grays of Skibo. Her mother was Christian McCulloch, daughter of David McCulloch of Glastullich. On her mother's side, Margaret was related to the Rosses of Morangie and Tarrel and the Macleods of Cambuscurrie⁹³. She was a first cousin of Hugh Rose, who made a fortune in the West Indies and on his return bought several of the estates around Tain, succeeded to the Cromarty estate by marriage, was one of the prime movers behind the foundation of Tain Royal Academy and was Provost of Tain 1833-1840⁹⁴. John Ross must have had some standing to have been acceptable to Margaret's family.

John and Margaret had the following children, all baptised in Tain⁹⁵: 1776 George. This was George Ross the watchmaker. He married the widow of another of his mother's cousins, David McCulloch of Glastullich 1777 Christian

1779 David

1780 David (Hugh Ross III was one of the witnesses)

1783 Charles

1785 Ann

1787 Malcolm

1789 Johana, unmarried and living with George in 1841 and 1851

1793 McCulloch

John and Margaret followed convention by naming their first daughter and second son after Margaret's parents, so it's possible that George was named after John's father. Charles and Malcolm could be named for John's brothers. See sons of Hugh Ross I, although John seems to be too young to be of that family.

CWS identifies Dingwall clockmaker John Ross as the same man. Watchpaper John Ross, watch and clockmaker, jeweller &c. Dingwall, seals, keys, chains, gold rings⁹⁶.

14a. Gavin Skeoch, clockmaker (mid 18th c.)

1763: Agreement with John Ross to make a clock for Hugh McLeod of Geanies as mentioned above. This was to be a complex eight day clock which would play twelve different tunes. Before it was finished Skeoch got into trouble and was imprisoned in the tolbooth. Geanies demanded the clock but John Ross claimed he had bought it from Skeoch. The outcome is unknown.

1766: Payment of £1 5s in burgh accounts "per order"⁹⁷. Did Skeoch work with John Ross to make the new clock for the tolbooth?

1768: Payment of £1 5s to Skeoch in the town's accounts 98.

Skeoch seems to have been prone to trouble. In 1780 he wrote to Sir Alexander Dunbar from the tolbooth in Elgin, where he had been jailed for "giving a chape to a man's nose", asking him to pay the fine of 5 shillings so that he could be released⁹⁹.

Skeoch was married to Jean Cunningham and they had at least two children, John, baptised at Eaglesham in 1750, and Robert at Paisley in 1755¹⁰⁰. In the McLeod agreement Skeoch is described as "late in Glasgow" and in 1750 as in Millhall. He may have been from Ayrshire, where the name Skeoch is most common. Pigot's 1837 Directory says of the Stewarton area: "The manufacture and forging of clockwork for which this town is peculiar in North Britain is a trade of some significance as it forms an item of exportation to the continent of Europe and America". John Skeoch, clockwork forger, is listed in the High Street.

AD Antiques of Loughton, Essex, recently sold a long-case clock made by Skeoch. It was described as an excellent Georgian clock of top quality. It was an eight day clock with a silvered brass dial and painted moon-phase and was in working order. The same clock was sold by auctioneers Boningtons in 2009. There is a sundial made by Skeoch in the courtyard at Foulis Castle.

15. Hugh Ross III, silversmith, goldsmith (c.1745-1786)

1770: Joined St Duthus masonic lodge¹⁰¹. Seems more likely to be HRIII than HRII as HRII had already been in business for at least 30 years.

1773: Listed in window tax records, at first with Hugh Ross senior then from 1777 to 1786 on his own¹⁰².

1773: Baptism of son John¹⁰³.

1775: Baptism of son Donald¹⁰⁴.

1776-1784: Burgh councillor¹⁰⁵. His signature appears twice in the council minutes and does not seem to be that of HRII. He may have been a councillor before this date as 1776 is the first year of the continuous series of minutes.

1777: Baptism of son Andrew¹⁰⁶.

1779: Baptism of daughter Janet¹⁰⁷.

1780: Joined Guildry. Mentioned occasionally in minutes thereafter 108.

1780: Witness at baptism of John Ross's son David¹⁰⁹.

1783: Letter from Patrick Robertson re commission for a gold snuff box¹¹⁰.

1787: Roup of stock and household effects of Hugh Ross silversmith. Stock included silver snuffbox, gold and silver hearts, silver buckles, gold and silver rings, silver spoons, precious stones, watch glasses, silver candlesticks, silver caster, silver coffee pots, silver nutmeg graters, gold and bullion weights. Purchasers included John Ross watchmaker¹¹¹. 1792: Deceased's son John given a guinea by Guildry as he was going abroad¹¹².

His wife was Mary Munro, daughter of bailie Donald Munro, merchant¹¹³. The references suggest that in the 1770s he was a young man but becoming established, hence the estimated birth date. The window tax records indicate that Hugh Ross II was his father (or possibly uncle, as Robert Keay elder and younger?). There seems to have been a gap between the working dates of Hugh Ross I and II. The relationship between them, if any, is unknown.

16. John Smith, watchmaker (late 18th c.)

1788: Proposed building of Geanies Street, which would join High Street "betwixt gables of houses now possessed by George Murray mercht and John Smith watchmaker"¹¹⁴.

17. Alexander Forsyth, watchmaker (late 18th c.)

1795: List of the Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of Tain liable for Statute Labour, watchmaker¹¹⁵.

18. Alexander Stewart I, silversmith (c.1766-c.1845)

1796-1841: Silversmith¹¹⁶.

1796: Admitted to Hammermen Incorporation of Inverness¹¹⁷.

1812: Tain¹¹⁸.

1814-25: Intermittent attendance at Tain Royal Academy by children Jane, Alexander, James, Thomas, John¹¹⁹.

1815: Notary's fees re subjects in the New Town¹²⁰.

1825-27: Various warrants and decreets v. AS¹²¹.

1841: Living in Lamington Street age 75 with wife Barbara¹²².

19. George Ross, watchmaker (1776-1856)

1795: List of the Inhabitants of the Town and Parish of Tain liable for Statute Labour, watchmaker¹²³.

1801: Tain suit roll, watchmaker¹²⁴.

1802: Joined St Duthus masonic lodge¹²⁵.

1805-1813: Baptism of 4 children¹²⁶.

1812: House and garden on Main Street¹²⁷.

1814-31: Attendance at Tain Royal Academy by children Christian, Charles, Barbara, David¹²⁸.

1817: Chased for payment by George Ross, wright¹²⁹.

1821-23: In Tain Commercial Directory¹³⁰.

1827-29: Warrants v. various people, presumably for non-payment. One mentions "Alex Urquhart your apprentice" 131.

1828: Watchpaper 132.

1830: Small debt summons¹³³.

1834: Attended Police Committee meeting¹³⁴, on list of electors for burgh elections¹³⁵.

1841: Living in High Street with wife Catherine, Hannah (sister?), Barbara Campbell (daughter?) and William Ross (age 20, apprentice – son?)¹³⁶.

1844-47: Entries in sheriff clerk's account book¹³⁷.

1844-56: Entries in Tain Gas Company cash book for shop and house¹³⁸.

1847: Watchpaper¹³⁹.

1850: Watchpaper¹⁴⁰.

1851: Living in King Street, master employing 1 man, with sister Hannah (63), son-in-law William Ross (Free Church probationer, 47), daughter Barbara (40), grandson Hugh (9), granddaughter Catherine (6)¹⁴¹. 1856: Died July 12th¹⁴². "Mrs Catherine Ross d.22/6/1841 aged 72 her 1856: Died July 12th¹⁴². "Mrs Catherine Ross d.22/6/1841 aged 72 her husband Mr George Ross watchmaker in Tain who d.12/7/1856 aged 80"¹⁴³. Sale of business¹⁴⁴.

1857: Inventory, watchmaker in Tain¹⁴⁵.

George Ross was the eldest son of John Ross. His first wife, Catherine Lawson, daughter of a ship's Captain from Leith, was previously married to David McCulloch of Glastullich¹⁴⁶, who died in 1802¹⁴⁷. George and Catherine had four children, all baptised in Tain¹⁴⁸:

1805 Christian, married Thomas Flint, druggist in Tain

1807 Charles

1809 Barbara Campbell Gray, married William Ross who became Free Church Minister of Fodderty

1813 David McCulloch

Catherine also had two daughters from her first marriage, Margaret and Mary, born 1795¹⁴⁹ and 1797¹⁵⁰, who may have lived with the rest of the family as they were still very young. However, James and William Baillie Rose were appointed their guardians¹⁵¹. These were brothers of the Hugh Rose mentioned under John Ross, and were therefore George's cousins. From 1811 there was a legal dispute between the two girls and James Rose over the income from Glastullich¹⁵², but in 1819 Mary married William Baillie Rose¹⁵³.

20. Diogenes Mackay, gunsmith (early 19th c.)

1812: House and garden in New Town¹⁵⁴.

1814-15: Attendance at Tain Royal Academy by son Lachlan¹⁵⁵.

21. David Ross, watch and clockmaker (early 19th c.)

1826: Watchpaper¹⁵⁶.

22. Joseph Campbell, jeweller (early 19th c.)

1852: Will, jeweller in London of Tain¹⁵⁷.

23. Alexander Stewart II, jeweller, silversmith, umbrella maker (b.1801)

1825-37: Jeweller, silversmith and umbrella maker. Son of Alexander Stewart I. Work retailed by William McKenzie, Stirling¹⁵⁸.

24. John Sellar, watch and clockmaker, silversmith, jeweller (1801-1886)

1825-86: Watch and clockmaker, silversmith and jeweller<sup>159</sup>. 1821-23: Forres<sup>160</sup>. 1821-25: Tain<sup>161</sup>.

1822: Advertisement for watch and clock making in Tain¹⁶².

1822: Marriage to Jane Grant recorded in Tain and Forres¹⁶³.

1823: Baptism of son John in Tain¹⁶⁴.

1825-36: Wick¹⁶⁵.

1834: Alexander Bain and others v. John Sellar¹⁶⁶.

1836: Alexander Bain and others v. John Sellar¹⁶⁷.

1836: Elgin¹⁶⁸.

1863-86: John Sellar & Sons, Elgin¹⁶⁹.

Listed in CWS for Elgin¹⁷⁰. John Sellar is covered in detail in Provincial Silversmiths of Moray and Their Marks, GP Moss, Quartet Books 1994, pp56-66, and in HGS pp173-179. Silver made by him with the Tain mark is extremely rare. There at least two examples of sets of spoons which include items made by both Alexander Stewart and by John Sellar marked JS only¹⁷¹. The implication is that these were made in Tain. In 1997 there was a long-case clock made by him in Tain in a private house in the town (present whereabouts unknown)¹⁷².

25. William Innes, silversmith, jeweller (b.1801)

1830-34: Tain¹⁷³.

1832-34: Partnership with Wilkie¹⁷⁴.

26. John Jack, watchmaker (b.c.1805)

c.1880: List of persons entitled to vote, watchmaker, house in Hartfield Street¹⁷⁵.

No other references found to this man as a watchmaker, but in 1871 John Jack, Hartfield Street, labourer age 66 b. Knockbain had a German born visitor called Frank Huver Hoch who was a watchmaker¹⁷⁶.

27. Richard Maxwell Wilkie, silversmith, jeweller (1806-1880)

1834-80: Jeweller and silversmith¹⁷⁷.

1834: Tain¹⁷⁸.

1837: Silversmith, Terrace, Tain¹⁷⁹.

1838: Glasgow¹⁸⁰. 1841: Stirling¹⁸¹.

1844: Concluded sequestration, Glasgow, jeweller silversmith¹⁸².

1852: Concluded sequestration, Glasgow, jeweller¹⁸³.

1880: Burial age 75, from Easter Ross Union Poorhouse¹⁸⁴.

28. James Houston, jeweller (b.c.1811)

1841: jeweller¹⁸⁵.

1841: In Writers Lane age 30, possibly lodging at an inn as head of household was a publican (called Houston Mackay – connection?). Neither born in county¹⁸⁶.

29. Alexander Urquhart, watchmaker (b.c.1814)

1829: Apprentice to George Ross¹⁸⁷.

CWS lists an Alexander Urquhart from Dingwall as a watch finisher in Inverness in 1871, possibly the same man, living with his father James, cabinet maker, in Beaton's Lane.

30. Andrew Smith, watchmaker (b.c.1814-1881)

1861: Living in Queen Street age 47 b.Prestonpans with wife Margaret (46 b. Kincardine) and son Robert (apprentice watchmaker, 15 b. Prestonpans)¹⁸⁸.

1871: Living in Tower Street with wife Margaret¹⁸⁹.

c.1880: List of persons entitled to vote, watchmaker, house in Tower Street 190 .

1877: Watchpaper, High Street¹⁹¹.

1881: Burial age 66¹⁹².

1881: Margaret now a widow¹⁹³.

1881: Notice in Invergordon Times re winding up of business, collection of clocks and watches etc¹⁹⁴.

31. James Carswell Dowie, watch cleaner, clock and watchmaker (b.c.1819)

1851: Lodging with David McKay in Castle Street age 32 b. Edinburgh¹⁹⁵.

1861: Lodging with Jane Urquhart in Academy Street¹⁹⁶.

Although Dowie was in Tain in 1851 and 1861, his base seems to have been Edinburgh. His son William Brown Dowie was born there in 1850^{197} and was apprenticed to the Edinburgh goldsmith George Carstairs in 1866^{198} . CWS lists a David Dowie in Tain c. 1860 - possibly a mistake¹⁹⁹.

32. William Mackenzie, watchmaker (c.1819-1879)

1841-79: Sent gold to Edinburgh for assay 1858-75. Mark appears to be always overstriking that of other goldsmiths²⁰⁰.

1841: Living in Academy Street, age 20, with Catherine Ross (75) and John Munro $(15)^{201}$.

?1843: Watchpaper²⁰².

1847: Watchpaper²⁰³.

1851: Living at Thornhill, age 32, with Margaret Ross (visitor, 23), William Ross (apprentice, 18) and Isabella Ross (55), all born in Tain²⁰⁴.

1852-1861: Baptism of 5 children in Tain²⁰⁵.

1855: Entry in Tain Gas Company cash book, watchmaker²⁰⁶.

1860: Watch and clockmaker at the Terrace²⁰⁷.

1861: Living in the High Street with wife Caroline (40 b. London) and children Louisa, Mary, Edward and Charles (7, 5, 3, 1 month, all b. Tain)²⁰⁸.

1871: Living in Dunrobin Street with children Louisa, Maryann and Edward²⁰⁹.

1877: Watchpaper²¹⁰.

1879: Burial age 62²¹¹.

33. John Ferrier, watch and clockmaker (mid 19th c.)

1836: Listed in CWS²¹².

1837: Watch and clockmaker, King Street²¹³.

Not in 1841 census for Tain.

34. Thomas Ross, watch and clockmaker (mid 19th c.)

1836: Listed in CWS, High Street²¹⁴.

1837: Watch and clockmaker, High Street²¹⁵.

Not in 1841 census for Tain.

35. Hugh Mackenzie, watchmaker (mid 19th c.)

1848: Entry in Tain Gas Company cash book²¹⁶.

36. A. Munro & Son (mid 19th c.)

Long-case clock in private house in Cromarty.

37. Alexander Hendrie, watch and clockmaker, jeweller (mid 19th c.)

No date: Watchpaper²¹⁷.

38. John Mackenzie I, jeweller, perfumer, barber (c.1820-)

1851: Living in Sutherland Street age 31, b. Logie Easter.

1860: Listed in CWS²¹⁸.

1861: Living in Sutherland Street with father John (meal dealer, 70 b. Logie Easter), mother Mary Rose (65 b. Fearn) and sister Margaret (28 b. Tain)²¹⁹.

1871: Living in Sutherland Street with sister Margaret²²⁰.

1879: Burial age 61²²¹.

c.1880: List of persons entitled to vote, jeweller, house in Sutherland Street, shop in High Street²²².

1881: Will, jeweller, Tain²²³.

39. Finlay Fraser, draper watchmaker (b.c.1820)

1891: Living in Vine Place age 71 b. Tain²²⁴.

Finlay Fraser was Hugh and Joseph Fraser's older brother. He must have incorporated their watchmaking business into his drapery business after they died.

40. William Ross I, watchmaker (b.c.1821)

1841: Apprentice to George Ross watchmaker²²⁵.

CWS lists a William Ross watch and clockmaker in Dingwall 1844-50, possibly the same man²²⁶.

41. Hugh & Joseph Fraser, watch and clockmakers, jewellers (Hugh 1823-1889, Joseph 1827-1875)

1836-58: Listed in CWS²²⁷.

1837: Hugh Fraser, watch and clockmaker, Lamington Street²²⁸.

1840: Small Debt HF²²⁹.

1851-73: Watch and clockmakers and jewellers²³⁰.

1851: Living in Academy Street, Hugh age 24 Joseph age 20, with father John (mason, 56 b. Fearn), mother Catherine (52, b. Creich) and sister Catherine (26)²³¹.

1854-59: Entries in Tain Gas Company cash book²³².

?1858: Watchpaper²³³.

1861: Living in Academy Street²³⁴.

1871: Living in Academy Street with parents and sister Catherine²³⁵.

1873: Advertisement in Tain Almanac, watchmakers and jewellers²³⁶.

c.1880: List of persons entitled to vote, house in Academy Street²³⁷.

1875: Burial of Joseph age 48²³⁸.

1881: Hugh living in Academy Street, employing 2 men, with sister Catherine²³⁹.

?1884: Watchpaper²⁴⁰.

?1887: Watchpaper²⁴¹.

1889: Burial of Hugh age 65²⁴².

1890: Testament dative Hugh Fraser, watchmaker and jeweller, Tain²⁴³.

There is a mystery over the earlier dates. Hugh was baptised in June 1823^{244} , so would only have been about 14 when Pigot's 1837 directory came out. Perhaps the mentions in 1837 and 1840 refer to a different Hugh Fraser, but if so he is not in the 1841 census for Tain.

Pocket watch key marked H & J Fraser Tain Watchmakers and Jewellers bought on Ebay 13/12/09.

42. William James, watchmaker (b.c.1830)

It would be satisfying to be able to link William Ross back to John and George Ross, but there seems to be no connection. William's father John was the son of George Ross, a crofter in the Fendom²⁸⁸. John's wife and mother were both from Rogart. William spent time at Heriot College, Edinburgh between 1881 and 1891²⁸⁹.

52. David Marchbank, watchmaker repairer (b.c.1866)

1891: Lodging with Williamina Grant in Geanies Street, age 25 b. Moffat²⁹⁰.

53. Donald Ross V, watchmaker (b.1871)

c.1886: Apprenticed to watchmaker Urquhart (otherwise unknown), together with William Ross (but note difference in ages and fact that WR was in Edinburgh in mid 1880s) in premises where WR later had his own shop²⁹¹.

1891: Living in Hartfield Street, watchmaker's assistant age 19, with mother Annie (55) and siblings Jane, Charles, Alexander, John (22, 21, 16, 15), all b. Tain²⁹².
